

Intern – Civil Designer Position

Company Description

Civilogistix is a dynamic, fast-paced company. We are growing and seeking to expand our land development design teams. We are engaged in meaningful work that challenges the mind and gives great opportunities for reward. Our firm offers alignment between the project manager and the project owner. We have an entrepreneurial environment where creative thinking is compensated. Our clients appreciate our approach to creating value for them and providing consistent top-quality work. We are licensed in 9 southeastern states, perform a wide variety of services and have clients with a large range of types of projects.

Our primary clients are medium to large developers who have a steady pipeline of projects across the Southeast and have big enough pockets to finance them. They appreciate our strong work ethic and the ability to deliver under the pressure of deadlines. We are an integral part of the exciting rapidly-growing development of the Southeast. Our interns have the opportunity to learn a variety of engineering applications and to grow and position themselves for a career.

Our team participates in recreational days and volunteer occasions together. We value your quality of life and work-life balance. We encourage community stewardship, a flexible vacation schedule and career development.
